Dear Lovisa Wretman,

Thank you for your e-mail request. In publishing with Blackwell, you as the author, are free to re-use your own article in another publication providing you are editor or co-editor (author or co-author) of the new publication. If you are not, then the interested third party will need to contact us directly with full request & contact details on this e-mail address.

You retain the following rights to re-use the article as long as you do not sell or reproduce the Article or any part of it for commercial purposes (i.e. for monetary gain on your own account or on that of a third party, or for indirect financial gain by a commercial entity). These rights apply without needing to seek permission from Blackwell Publishing.

Prior to acceptance:

We ask that as part of the publishing process you acknowledge that the Article has been submitted to the Journal. You will not prejudice acceptance if you use the unpublished Article, in form and content as submitted for publication in the Journal, in the following ways:

- you may share print or electronic copies of the Article with colleagues;
- you may post an electronic version of the Article on your own personal website, on your employer's website/repository and on free public servers in your subject area.

After acceptance:

Provided that you give appropriate acknowledgement to the Journal, the society if relevant and Blackwell Publishing, and full bibliographic reference for the Article when it is published, you may use the accepted version of the Article in the format as originally submitted for publication in the Journal, and updated to include any amendments made after peer review, in the following ways:

- you may share print or electronic copies of the Article with colleagues;
- you may use all or part of the Article and abstract, without revision or modification, in personal compilations or other publications of your own work;
- you may use the Article within your employer's institution or company for educational or research purposes, including use in course packs;
- you may post an electronic version of the Article on your own personal website, on your employer's website/repository and on free public servers in your subject area. (For some journals there is a requirement that posting of the Article online does not take place until a specified minimum period has elapsed.) Electronic versions of the accepted Article must include a link to the published version of the Article together with the following text: "The definitive version is available at www.wileyinterscience.com

Please note that you are not permitted to post the Blackwell Publishing PDF version of the Article online.

All requests by third parties to re-use the Article in whole or in part will be handled by Blackwell Publishing. Any permission fees will be retained by the Journal. All requests to adapt substantial parts of the Article in another publication (including publication by Blackwell Publishing) will be subject to your approval (which is deemed to be given if we have not heard from you within 4 weeks of your approval being sought by us writing to you at your last notified address). Please address any queries to permissionsuk@wiley.com

Kind Regards,

Jessica Waters

Hello!

I am a student in Biology at the University of Uppsala. Currently I am writing my Bachelor thesis. The essay, which is entirely a literature based project will be up-loaded at the University home page which is public. Although the essay will not be published.

I need your permission to use a few pictures in my essay. I would very much appreciate this because the pictures are crucial to my essay.
